It's no good to just promise change over and over again. She'll eventually just start seeing them as empty promises. You will need to show her that you truly mean it this time. After a break up, get a ex back to meet up with her and tell her whilelooking into her eyes seriously and honestly that you will do all that you possibly can to change for the better. Ask her if there is any particular way how you could start with the change. Perhaps by being more thoughtful in which case make sure you know of any special upcoming dates which you can surprise her with. In any case, get love back she asks of you and within reason, stick to it to show her how much she means to you.
