Does working in a bank appeal to you? If so, go for it with a cover letter example for a banking professional. You might want to be hired as a teller, an account executive, a loan officer, or a clerk. Whatever your goal, you can move closer to it by writing a cover letter for a banking professional that includes details about your education, expertise, interest in the job and why you're a good candidate for it. Of course you'll attach a resume too, but the letter is a more personal document that gives the hiring manager a chance to learn something about you as a person. Be sure to end your cover letters for banking professionals by asking for an in-person meeting to discuss the job.
